
More about

Hot time

(Continued from page 1)

lon as a good activity for the entire family. His son and sister-in-law also participated. "My wife would have been here today, but it's her birthday," Cahill revealed.

Even those not actually competing got into the act. The streets were lined with onlookers, most shouting encouragement to relatives and friends.

"People just love to watch it," Van Der Geest concurred. "That's what makes this whole thing go: the support we get from the community. It's just great."

John Wiberg, age 18, was the overall winner of the event. His time of 1 hour, 9 minutes, 46 seconds was less than a minute faster than that of the runner-up, 18-year-old Thomas Woyte. Annemarie Tiffe, age 27, topped the women with a time of 1:15.24.

A list of age group winners appears in the Sports Results column on page B4.